

THE JAMES GANG.

Dick Little Free While Frank James Lives Royally in Jail.

KANSAS CITY, April 19.—Dick Little is daily expected in town, and the reporters are running their legs off trying to find out the true inwardness of his release from the United States authorities down in Alabama. Dick was the festive "masher" of the James gang, whose love affairs got himself and others into frequent scrapes. His flirtation with the dashing young wife of old farmer Hite, the Kentucky uncle of the Jameses, led to the killing of Wood Hite. This in turn created a feud with Jesse James, which meant death to the one who should be slow to improve his opportunities. Dick grasped the situation, made peace with Governor Crittenden, and made disclosures about members of the gang. That was the first decisive step in the scheme that brought Jesse down at the mouth of Bob Ford's pistol. Last winter Dick met with a misfortune in the Alabama town of Huntsville, where a jury in the Federal Court found him guilty of robbing United States Postmaster Smith, at Mussel Shoals, on the Tennessee river, in 1881. Sentence was suspended, and Governor Crittenden petitioned the President to pardon the prisoner, saying that Dick's testimony was wanted by the prosecution to help convict Frank James. The President replied that a hawk in the hand was worth an eagle in the air. He wouldn't grant the pardon. What is the mysterious influence that has at last given Dick Little the liberty the President refused? That is what is puzzling people in all this part of the State, and keeping the reporters staying wide awake at night. Meanwhile Frank James is living royally in the Gallatin jail, and does not seem to be heavily oppressed by the two indictments for cold blooded murder that are hanging over him in Gallatin county. On Sunday last he had a kind of lawn party in the jail yard, where he received troops of visitors, among them Major Cox, who commanded a regiment of union Missourians during the war.

PERFECTLY RIDICULOUS.

A Love-Sick Young Man Attempts to Drown Himself in a Tub.

St. Louis, April 19.—William Jorens, a love-sick youth, made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt at suicide yesterday. He is employed at Pauly & Bros.' iron building works, on Louis and DeKalb streets. Shortly after noon, while he was at work, one of the clerks handed him a sealed note, the superscription of which was in a feminine hand. Jorens retired quickly to a corner of the shop, nervously tore open the billet-doux, and devoured the contents with avidity. As he perused the message a look of disappointment came over his face. With a gesture of anger he crumpled the note in his hand and rushed out into the yard. He seemed to be laboring under great excitement, and several of his shopmates who had been watching him closely with the intention of joking him about the missive, followed him in a surprise. Jorens walked to a large iron tank filled with water which stood in the middle of the yard and jumped into it, ducking his head under the water. The men who followed him pulled him out, but only after a hard struggle, as the love-lorn lad resisted with all his strength and begged them to let him die. He was taken in charge by friends and removed to his home, several blocks from the shop. He refused to divulge anything regarding the contents of the note, but his companions believed that it was a rejection of his suit from a young lady to whom he was paying his addresses.

SKELTONS OF THE DEAD

Plowing up the Bones of the Confederate Soldiers near Richmond.

Richmond, April 19.—The announcement that a number of skeletons of dead Confederates who fell at Seven Pines, have recently been plowed up by farmers living near that historic battlefield has caused quite a stir in this city. In many cases whole skeletons have been exposed, the waists of most of them being encircled with leather belts, the cartridge boxes and buckles bearing the legend "C. L. A." The First Virginia, of this city, and the Seventeenth Virginia, of Alexandria, lost scores of men in the battle of Seven Pines. The Federal dead were removed long ago and buried in the National Cemetery, near the battle field. It is believed that hundreds of Confederates were buried with them and now rest beside those with whom they were opposed in deadly strife. While most of the bones plowed up are undoubtedly those of Confederates, yet it is believed that some of them are those of Union soldiers who fell in the same battle.

KELLOGG AND BRADY.

They are Indicted by the Washington Grand Jury.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Grand Jury yesterday returned an indictment against William Pitt Kellogg for receiving money while a United States Senator for services rendered in relation to a contract with the United States. The witnesses are John A. Walsh, James B. Price, Joseph Cochran, and J. M. Brady. They also returned an indictment against Thomas J. Brady for receiving money while Assistant Postmaster General for services rendered in relation to a contract with the United States. The same witnesses are named. The indictments are apparently as long as the indictment in the Star Route case. There are five counts in each indictment, charging five separate payments of $1,500 for expediting prices on routes from San Antonio to Corpus Christi, Tex., and from Monroe to Shreveport, La.

The Fenian Amphibious Ram.

New York, April 19.—Holland's torpedo boat, which has attracted so much comment in connection with Irish nationalist plans, was yesterday beached at Pampeo, N. J., for the purpose of making alterations in her construction. The owner and engineer have been taking secret subaqueous nocturnal voyages to various points in her; hence the mystery which has surrounded her movements.

A Chicago Social Sensation.

Chicago, April 19.—A social sensation has been created in aristocratic circles by the news that the approaching marriage of Miss Emma Smith, daughter of Perry H. Smith, the well known millionaire, to Dr. Warren, of Paris, has been broken off. The courtship was somewhat romantic, and occurred last year in Paris while the Smith family was abroad. Dr. Warren, the betrothed lover, sailed for America to fulfill his promise, but Miss Emma's big brother has gone to New York, so it is stated, to head him off. Strange rumors are afloat, but no explanations are offered. The father has just been sent to a private insane asylum, and a conservator has been appointed for his large estate. Dr. Warren attained great renown abroad by curing the chief of a Persian tribe of a distressing ailment. If the medical lover succeeds in reaching Chicago safely, an interesting and highly dramatic denouement is expected.

Sentenced to Death.

NATCHES, Miss., April 19.—Albert Miles colored, was to-day convicted of murder by the Circuit Court and sentenced to death. The crime was a cold-blooded brutal one, committed last September at Dead Man's Bend, and the victim was the wife of the murderer. She was in church, and Miles went into the sacred edifice after her. She came out, but before she was thirty feet from the church he plunged his knife into her heart.
